HUMAN RIGHTS
come with responsibilities

What are human rights?

Human rights are rights which are inherent to all human beings.

Human Rights - General

Human rights acknowledges that everyone is entitled to enjoy his or her human rights without distinction to race, colour, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, national, ethnic or social origin, property, birth or other status.

Human rights protect individuals and groups against actions that interfere with fundamental freedoms and human dignity.

Treaties and human rights law protect the rights of individuals and groups against violation by governments.

International Human Rights Law

Human rights is expressed through international human rights law which consist of treaties, conventions, customary international law, declarations, guidelines, general principles, proclamations, standard rules and recommendations.

Human Rights Responsibility

Our Responsibility

You and I are responsible to teach and respect human rights, and to challenge institutions and individuals that abuse them.

Government Responsibility

The implementation of human rights treaties is the prime responsibility of the state. They have the responsibility to respect, to protect, and to fulfil human rights obligation.

Universal Responsibility

Everyone, including cooperations, non-governmental organisations, foundations and educational institutions are responsible for the promotion and protection of human rights.

The Main Principles of Human Rights

EQUALITY

You and I are born free and equal

NON-DISCRIMINATION

Rights and Responsibilities apply equally to everyone

UNIVERSALITY

Human Rights are universal, as they are applied equally and without discrimination to all people. No one can have his or her human rights taken away. However in some situations rights can be limited. No human right is "less important" than others.

The different human rights are related to each other and are dependent.

The respect for some rights involves respecting others. The violation of one right affects respect for several others!
